CONFERENCE ALERTS

This year's Spring Meeting will feature the First Annual "Rule of Law Day" on Wednesday, April 13. This will be a high-profile discussion of rule of law and democracy in the world, trends in foreign assistance (public and private) and activities of the American Bar Association. It will feature speakers from Congress, and top executives from international and financial institutions, the Bretton Woods Committee and the private sector, culminating with a reception at the Supreme Court, hosted by Justice Sandra Day O'Connor. This emphasis reflects the Section's and ABA's Commitment to Goal VIII – "To Advance the Rule of Law in the World." Throughout the conference, a "Rule of Law" track provides additional programming on hot topics in law and international development. On Thursday afternoon, a "Practitioners' Roundtable" will discuss ways in which Section members can volunteer for international pro bono opportunities, and new efforts toward knowledge management and networking for past, present and future volunteers.

SHOWCASE PROGRAMS:

- * International Litigation: A User's Manual
- * Nuclear Weapons, Our Security and the Law
- * The ICJ's Advisory Competence and the Palestinian-Israeli Conflict: Legality of the Construction of a Wall in the Occupied Palestinian Territory
- * World Agricultural Trade – Rules, Commitments and the Future: With a Special Focus on U.S.–China Trade Relations
- * Business Opportunities & Challenges in China Today
- * Economic Sanctions in the 21st Century
- * Reforming the UN Human Rights Commission

• Cross Border Crime. Defence Rights in a new era of international judicial co-operation

Friday 15 April 2005

Church House, Great Smith Street, Westminster, London SW1, UK

Organised with Sweet & Maxwell

A one-day conference assessing the new UK / EU / US extradition and mutual assistance regimes:

How is the Eurowarrant working in practice?

What are the new instruments that will follow in its wake?

Are concerns about the new UKUS Extradition Treaty justified?

Can defence rights be protected under these new arrangements?

Crime crosses borders - but is justice being turned back at the frontier? The past 2 years have seen fundamental changes in the UK's response to trans-national crime. In Europe, a programme of 'mutual recognition' in criminal matters has spawned the European Arrest Warrant. More developments are imminent. Across the Atlantic, a controversial new extradition treaty - agreed without parliamentary scrutiny - has traded traditional safeguards for procedural efficiency.

These changes are happening in a context - EU enlargement, the war on terror and the ever-easier movement of people, goods, information, money and ideas - which means that international responses to crime are inevitable. But are essential human rights principles and crucial procedural safeguards for suspects being discarded?

Fundamental issues of politics, principle and practice are involved. This conference brings together leading experts to review the latest developments, highlight concerns and propose solutions.

A New subscription in the Library:

Journal of International Criminal Justice (JICJ)

JICJ aims to promote a profound collective reflection on the new problems facing international law. Established by a group of distinguished criminal lawyers and international lawyers, JICJ addresses the major problems of justice from the angle of law, jurisprudence, criminology, penal philosophy, and the history of international judicial institutions. It is intended for graduate and post-graduate students, practitioners, academics, government officials, as well as the hundreds of people working for international criminal courts.

HINT OF THE MONTH

*Did you know that..... you can access the Oxford English Dictionary online.

As a user of ICTR Library, all you have to do is just visit:

<http://www.oed.com>

The new Oxford English Dictionary Online, available from March 2000, provides unparalleled access to the wealth of material contained in the acclaimed 20-volume Second Edition of the Oxford English Dictionary and the 3 volumes of Additions. Online publication also enables the "treasure house" of the English language to move with the times as never before possible.

For the first time since it was completed in 1928, the OED is being completely revised - every word and every sense is being fully updated to take account of the latest changes in language and scholarship. New material from the £34 million revision programme which began in 1990 will be released quarterly, offering online subscribers a unique opportunity to chart the course of the English language as soon as the lexicographical analysis is available.

- * Search the equivalent of 23 volumes of information with speed and ease
- * Find a term when you know the meaning but have forgotten the word
- * Find words that have come into English via a particular language
- * Search for quotations from a specified year
- * Search for all quotations from a particular author and/or work
- * Display entries according to your needs - for the first time you can turn pronunciation, etymologies, variant spellings, and quotations on and off
- * Gain unique online access to at least 1,000 new and revised words each quarter
- * Compare revised entries with entries from the Second Edition to see how language has changed and how new scholarship has increased understanding of our linguistic and cultural heritage
