NEW BOOKS

Annotated Leading Cases of International Criminal Tribunals volume 11

KLIP, A. (ed.), SLUITER, G. (ed.)
Call No 01GB002 V11

The Series Annotated Leading Cases of International Criminal Tribunals provides the reader with the full text of the most important decisions, including concurring, separate and dissenting opinions. Distinguished experts in the field of international criminal law have commented the decisions. An index is included.

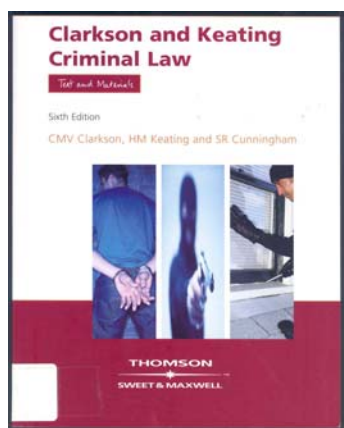

The editors of the Series have gathered the most important case law of the International Criminal Tribunals. The added value of the series is that the selected cases are not only shown in their full format but are also summarised and annotated by leading academics in the field of international criminal law.

The series Annotated Leading Cases of International Criminal Tribunals is useful for students, scholars, legal practitioners, judges, prosecutors and defence counsel who are interested in the various legal aspects of the law of the ICTY, ICTR and other forms of international criminal adjudication.

This eleventh volume of annotated leading case law of international criminal tribunals contains decisions taken by the ICTY in the years 2002 and 2003. It provides the reader with the full text of the most important decisions, identical to the original version and including concurring, separate and dissenting opinions. Distinguished experts in the field of international criminal law have commented the decisions. An index is included.

NEW BOOKS

Clarkson & Keating Criminal Law: Text and Materials

S R Cunningham, C M V Clarkson, H M Keating

ISBN: 9780421947801

Sweet & Maxwell, 6th Edition, 2007

Call No 07MB005

- Examines the main principles and rules of criminal law and explores the theoretical bases upon which they are founded in an easily digestible text
- Combines the best features of a standard “textbook” with those of a “cases and materials” to provide guidance and direction on the law, whilst presenting a substantial amount of key primary material selected from a diversity of sources
- Includes extracts from cases and academic articles, carefully edited to make them accessible to students
- Draws on non-legal contextual material to provide a social context to the law rather than a mere analysis of the rules
- Includes analysis of leading decisions including G and Another (recklessness), Dica and Konzani (consent) and the Privy Council decision of Holley (provocation)
- Covers all key developments including the extensive changes resulting from the Sexual Offences Act 2003, the Criminal Justice Act 2003, the Domestic Violence, Crime and Victims Act 2004, the Fraud Act 2006 and the Road Safety Act 2006 and considers the Law Commission Report on reform of the law of homicide

Prosecuting Sexual and Gender-Based Crimes in the ICC: Translating Promises into Reality Symposium

October 14, 2008, Washington, D. C.

Women and International Law Program and the War Crimes Research Office of the American University Washington College of Law will host a symposium on "Prosecuting Sexual and Gender-Based Crimes in the ICC: Translating Promises into Reality," October 14, 2008, in Washington, D.C. Why attend?

Prior to the passage of the Rome Statute in 1998, women's human rights activists engaged in a campaign to demand prosecution of gender-based crimes in the proposed International Criminal Court. Because of this campaign, the International Criminal Court is the first international criminal justice mechanism that explicitly takes into account gender concerns in both its administrative structure and its general subject matter jurisdiction. The International Criminal Court serves as a symbol of a legal system that takes the concerns and needs of women seriously. Join leading experts and practitioners in international criminal law and feminist jurisprudence for a full day exploration of a deceptively simple question: Has the ICC's symbolic potential as an institution committed to holding accountable perpetrators of mass sexual and gender-based crimes translated into reality?
