CONFERENCE ALERTS

Sexual Violence As International Crime Interdisciplinary Approaches To Evidence

Tuesday, June 16 2009 - Thursday, June 18 2009
The Hague

This Interdisciplinary Colloquium will focus on innovations and challenges of empirical and other information gathering techniques to build evidence for the prosecution of cases of sexual violence. This focus will include such aspects as the development of new kinds of social scientific, archival and medical data collection techniques; the development of evidence in relation to charges ranging from sexual slavery to crimes against humanity and genocide; and evidentiary and procedural differences involved in prosecuting sexual victimization in domestic versus international courts.

To meet the Colloquium's goal of familiarizing participants from different fields with the overlapping possibilities and challenges they confront in advocating and assisting in the prosecution of sexual violence as international crime, the Colloquium will feature both plenary panels and working group sessions. This will include social scientists, court and aid workers, medical personnel, psychologists, journalists, and activists.
